Mark Ullrich, current president of the Woodland Chamber of Commerce, recently joined the board of directors for the California Capital Region Foundation — a foundation that invests and distributes funds for the benefit of the local United Way chapter that is working to end poverty for local families, starting in school.

Ullrich is also a partner in the Woodland-based firm Ullrich Delevati CPAs he founded in 1980 that specializes in taxation and accounting services for individuals and small businesses.

“I believe my experience as a CPA (certified public accountant), along with my involvement with many not-for-profit organizations in the roles of president and treasurer, provide the financial experience and sound judgment to contribute to the long-term viability of the foundation,” Ullrich stressed.

Ullrich has over 40 years of experience as a practicing certified public accountant specializing in agricultural accounting, mergers and acquisitions, offers-in-compromise, business valuation, strategic planning, historic rehabilitation projects and business consulting, according to a United Way press release.

with serving as president of the Woodland Chamber of Commerce, Ullrich has also served as the treasurer of the Woodland Healthcare Foundation, as a board member of United Way California Capital Region and as a committee member of the Community Service Area for Wildwings community.

“United Way California Capital Region has been working to fight poverty for nearly 100 years by creating stronger, healthier, more compassionate communities,” the press release highlighted. “The local United Way has found one place in each community to reach the most families in need: school is square one for ending family poverty.”
